

BOY'S WOUNDS MAY BE FATAL

Stabbed in Lung by Another Youth After a Fight Over a Dime Which Had Been Taken from Him.

With four wounds in his back made by a shoemaker's knife, two of which are believed to penetrate a lung, seventeen-year-old Emmanuel Glick, of No. 225 Fifth street, is in a precarious condition at Bellevue Hospital, and three other boys, Harry and Charles Brightfield and Frederick Kiefer, are being held by the police. This is the result of a quarrel over 10 cents.

The boys in custody were taken to the hospital, and Glick partly identified Charles Brightfield as the person who made the probably fatal assault upon him. Brightfield, according to Sergeant of Police Barnes, of the Fifth street station, admitted doing the cutting.

As the story of the trouble between the lads comes to the police, Glick went into a candy store a few doors from his home on Sunday night last and laid out 10 cents for a pumpling. Three other boys joined forces to help "Greene," for whom the police are searching, matched the money and ran away. Glick overtook him in the company of Harry Brightfield, who was demanding that "Greene" should go "halves" with him. Glick recovered his dime and gave the pumpling to him. Three other boys joined forces to help "Greene" and Brightfield, and they, too, were pumpled by the athletic Glick. This led to the attack made upon the wounded boy. The police say that the Brightfield brothers, who live at No. 437 East Ninth street, "Greene" and Fred Kiefer, fifteen years old, of No. 423 Fifth street, met Glick in front of No. 317 Fifth street. The same success was attending his fighting as on the previous occasion, when Charles Brightfield gave his brother a club. Glick took possession of the weapon and bent it to his own use.

It was at this point that the shoemaker's knife made its appearance. Kiefer has told Capt. McDermott, of the Fifth street station, that he passed it to Charles Brightfield, but that he had no idea he would use it as he did. He thought that Brightfield would use the Glick with it, not cut him. Charles Brightfield is seventeen years old and his brother a year younger.

AUTO CRASHES INTO TROLLEY CAR

Occupants, Two Men and a Woman, Thrown Into the Street, but Escape with Bruises and a Severe Shaking

Pedestrians in the vicinity of Forty-second street and Broadway were startled to-day by the sight of an auto which came dashing down Broadway just as a Forty-second street cross-town car started to cross the street.

In the auto were two men and a woman. The chauffeur tried his best to stop the machine, but was too late in applying the brakes. The auto crashed into the car and all three occupants were thrown to the street.

Bystanders rushed to their aid, and it was found that none was badly injured, although the young woman had been scratched and hurt slightly. She gave her name as Miss Martha McClement, of No. 269 West Thirty-seventh street. The man with her gave his name as Charles A. Miller, manager of a business concern at No. 113 Broadway. The chauffeur's name was not taken. No arrests were made and the machine was not badly damaged.

DIED AFTER BEING RUN OVER.

John Schmeiser, twenty-one years old, who was run over by an express wagon on Dec. 1 at Mulberry and Bleecker streets, died to-day in St. Vincent's Hospital. He lived at No. 506 East Twelfth street.

FEARS OTHER SON, TOO, IS MURDERED

Mrs. Fitzpatrick Has Received No Word from Harry, Who Went South to Identify His Brother Matthew's Body.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fitzpatrick, of No. 220 East Thirty-eighth street, the mother of Matthew J. Fitzpatrick, whose mutilated body was cast up by the sea on the beach near Pearson, Maryland, declared to-day that she felt much alarm for her younger son, Harry, who last Friday started for Pearson to identify his brother's body. She has had no word from the boy since he left New York.

"Harry left me on Friday," said Mrs. Fitzpatrick, "to go to Pearson and clinch the identification of his brother. He promised to telegraph me as soon as he reached Baltimore, but I have had no word from him, and learn that he had not reached Pearson up to yesterday morning."

"Naturally I am greatly alarmed about him because of the awful circumstances surrounding the death of Matthew. I feel that if Harry were alive, he would surely communicate with me. If he is dead, his death was accomplished by the hand of another." Mrs. Fitzpatrick received from Coroner J. H. Jarboe, of Pearson, to-day another letter, in which he said that, although some of the marks that should be on the body of Matthew Fitzpatrick had not been found, in every other detail it answered the description furnished by the mother. The body was in such condition, said Mr. Jarboe, that he had ordered it buried on the beach.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick learned to-day that Miss Virginia Breschi, of Brewster's, N. Y., the young woman to whom Matthew was engaged, had not given him a string of rosary beads. Thomas Murray, a man who said he was with young Fitzpatrick on the oyster boat, brought to the mother a string of beads, which he said Matthew had worn. Mrs. Fitzpatrick has seen nothing of Murray since he came to her home and believes he is an impostor.

Now Is the Time to Select Christmas Jewelry

Until you have visited the LAMBERT store for fine Diamond and Gold Jewelry, Watches, Clocks, Silverware and Opera Glasses, you cannot realize how far a few dollars will go in the purchase of honest, well-made jewelry when you deal with a firm that pays no profits to middlemen. Most of our brilliant stock is made in our own factory on the same premises with our store. It is directed by a member of the firm, and you are heartily invited to visit it. What we do not make, we buy of the best manufacturers in the country. Twenty-seven years' study of the public taste enables us to select what is most desirable from every line we examine. Thus, by applying practical knowledge to our work, and by cutting out the wholesaler and jobber, we can offer you advantages that you cannot find elsewhere. All the diamonds in our store are selected by one of the firm, who visits the great market of Amsterdam every year. The stones are directly imported by us. Almost every day customers who have bought single stone diamonds from us within a year ask us to exchange them for larger ones. In doing so we accept the smaller stones at the full price we received for them.

Call in the morning and shop comfortably. Give your orders for engraving. We will execute them with care and keep your purchase in a strong vault until you call for it, a day or two before Christmas.

Plain Rings—A Word in Confidence

We have no objection to taking the readers of this newspaper into our confidence and telling them that we make little profit on the LAMBERT seamless wedding rings, admirable and famous as they are. Solid gold and the best workmanship in America are not so cheap as to have a wide margin between what these rings cost us and what we sell them for. But we make two friends with every sale. The buyer and the wearer of the ring are almost certain to come to us for whatever they want in our line. They judge our general stock by the excellence of our plain rings, and they are quite right. These rings are made in all widths and weights, 14, 18 and 22 karat. Prices from $3 to $20.
